TITLE OF THE PROJECT: STUDIO 145 x 147

This project is a week spent evaluating, collaborating and redesigning existing studio spaces. The project has been developed closely with the university and faculty to ensure that the winning design will be implemented at a later date.

This project is different to other projects because it will be seen through from ideation to fabrication.

SKILLS LEARNED

You will learn to work together collaboratively in small design teams, making decisions on how to develop ideas for the developing the relationship between space and design intent.

You will learn how to consider zoning and circulation of people and area use within the studio.

You will learn how to curate the experience you want to make for the users, and how you want the space to holistically function.

You will learn how to consider lighting and acoustics within the space and understand how it can enable the students by promoting focus and integration.

Your design will be feasible. You will work within realistic regulations and limitations developing real world skills in material analysis and budgeting.

You will learn how to develop your model making skills, and enhance your ability to create conceptual designs through applied CAD modelling and skill sharing.
